

When Do Voters Sanction Corrupt Politicians? – Erratum

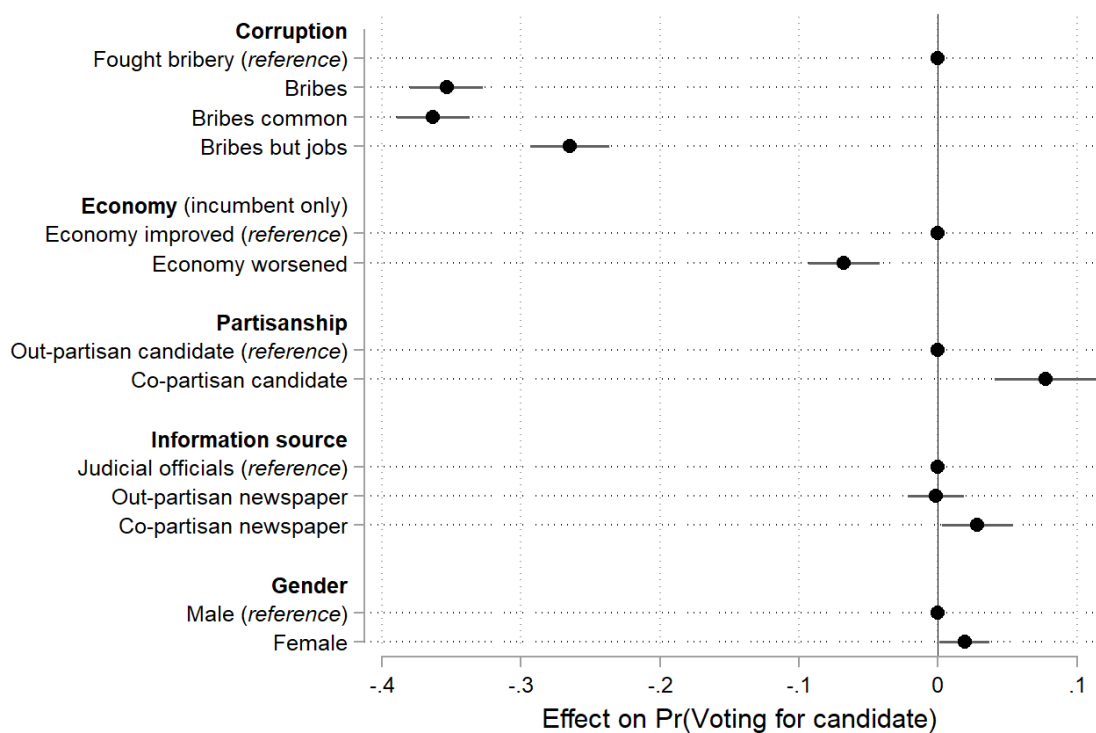

Marko Klašnja

Noam Lupu

Joshua A. Tucker

In the original publication of Klašnja et al. (2021), we miscoded the gender of the candidates in our conjoint experiment. As a result, the gender effect reported in Figure 1 was inverted, but none of the results discussed in our article were affected. The corrected Figure 1 is provided here:

Values represent the difference in respondents' propensity for supporting a hypothetical candidate based on each vignette characteristic. Lines represent 95% confidence intervals estimated using standard errors clustered by respondent. Estimates are based on OLS regressions.

This error also resulted in the sign of the gender effect (Figures A1-A2) and gender coefficient (Tables A2-A6) being reversed in the Supplementary Materials originally posted online to accompany the article; we have posted a corrected version of the Supplementary Materials. We are grateful to Carmen Le Foulon and Catherine Reyes-Housholder for bringing this coding error to our attention.
